The joys of life are many and bright
A world of wonder in every sight
A smile, a laugh, a warm embrace
A kind spoken word with grace.
The joys of life are simple and true
A walk in the park with a sky so blue
A gentle breeze that cools the skin
A moment of peace to take it all in.
The joys of life are found in friends
In love that never ends
In family ties that bind us tight
In memories that shine so bright.
So cherish each moment, big or small
For life is precious and meant for all
And when the day is done and through
May you find joy in all you do.
